DCI probe includes city's firefighters

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — The investigation into scores on a police sergeant test was expanded to include tests for firefighters, Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen said Wednesday.

The Illinois State Police Division of Criminal Investigation was expected to talk to "10 or 12 firemen" about possible cheating on test scores within that department, Allen said.

"That was one of the allegations that I gave to the DCI in Springfield," he said.

Allen declined to release further information regarding test scores in the Fire Department.

Assistant Fire Chief George Moran said Wednesday that several members of that department had been to the Police Department to be interviewed, but that he did not know anything more about it.

DCI spokesman Bob Fletcher said Wednesday that a summary of the test score investigation was being typed and Allen should have the report next week.

Fund for hemophiliac boy started by family members

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — A fund meant to help Jason Robertson, 6, a victim of hemophilia and AIDS-Related Complex, was started at the American Heritage Bank, at Fehling and Johnson roads.

"It's to get his blood products and blood supplies," said his grandmother, Carolyn Dover, of Granite City. "If he has to go to the hospital, there's no insurance at all to pay for it."

Medical expenses will cost the family up to $1,000 per month, Dover said.

The family had been receiving funds from the Illinois Department of Public Health that help pay his medical expenses. Due to Gov. James Thompson's budget cuts of July 20, the IDPH will no longer provide funds for approximately 100 hemophiliacs, including Jason Robertson.

Petitions to ask the governor to change his decision to cut the hemophilia program are being circulated by the boy's relatives, Dover said. Rep. Sam Wolf is

United Way under way 1987 campaign close to starting

GRANITE CITY — The Tri-Cities Area United Way's 1987 fund drive begins Sept. 10, industrial and business leaders learned Monday at a dinner held at Charlie's Restaurant.

The fund drive supports local human service agencies, and area firms have a responsibility to help, said the keynote speaker, Ralph Korte, of Ralph Korte Construction Co. of Highland. The United Way is the primary vehicle for distributing corporate contributions.

Korte asked corporate leaders to encourage their employees to support United Way at the workplace.

Darryl Slater, the 1987 United Way campaign chairman, explained how United Way volunteers determine the fund drive goal.

"Agency budget requests, recommendations from the Allocations Committee, past contribution history, and the community giving potential are all considered," Slater said.

The campaign goal will be announced after approval by the United Way Board of Directors.

Nestle Plant Manager Larry Merla said United Way employee campaigns succeed in the workplace.

"Group rallies, incentives for giving, speakers from United Way agencies including clients who were assisted, and encouraging employees to give one hour's pay per month were all factors in the success of the campaign at Nestle," Merla said.

Nestle employees contributed more than $14,000 to United Way last year.

Merla is the chairman of the industrial division for the 1987 campaign.

Firms represented at the dinner contributed 77 percent of the money raised last year by United Way.

Mary McCormick, manager of community relations at Illinois Bell Telephone Co., presented Slater with a check from the company, making Bell the first corporate contributor for the 1987 campaign. The company increased its gift by 10 percent from last year.

The cost of dinner was underwritten by Central Bank, First National Bank in Madison, Granite City Glass and Fence, Granite Sheet Metal Works, Madison County Federal Savings and Loan, C.D. Peters Construction, Prairie Farms Dairy and A.O. Smith Corp.

Changes made in police ranks

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Mayor Von Dee Cruse named Capt. James Lemmy lieutenant colonel, a position equivalent to assistant police chief.

"If you have production controls, you are inevitably going to have shrinking rural communities, and I don't believe that is good for the country," said Simon. "I think the long-term answer is to increase demand."

Police Chief Bob Astorian held the rank until he replaced former Police Chief Bill Harris, who resigned in July.

The council also approved Cruse's promotion of Astorian to the rank of colonel. Under a new ordinance, colonel is a required rank for the police chief. The ordinance also requires that a lieutenant colonel be chosen from a captain's rank. In the past, officers below a captain's rank have been appointed lieutenant colonel.

As a result of the ordinance, lieutenant colonel is no longer a permanent post and anyone promoted to that rank will serve at the discretion of Cruse or any future mayor, said City Attorney Mark Goldenberg. He said that

3 homeowners want to leave Granite City

GRANITE CITY — Three homeowners on Westmoreland Drive want to get out of town, but the city isn't letting them.

James and Nancy Harshany, of 2616 Westmoreland Drive; James and Marilyn Bernaix, of 2609 Westmoreland Drive and Carl Graham, of 2610 Westmoreland Drive petitioned the City Council in March to disconnect the three properties from the city. The council did not react, and the homeowners sent a letter July 14 asking for action.

The council has made no decision on the request, but the three still want out.

"More than three months have passed and the City Council has not considered my petition. Will you please act on the petition," Graham's letter of July 14 stated. Harshany's and Bernaix's petition also urged action.

James Bernaix said he and the other residents think they are being charged too much on their property taxes because of assessment gradings given by the Granite City Township Assessor's Office.

Bernaix said Nameoki Township Attorney Irv Slate has told him the township would be happy to take in the property. Two of the Westmoreland Drive properties border Nameoki Township. (See HOMEOWNERS, Page 12A)

School may close

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

MADISON — Louis Baer School may close, said the fifth-grade teacher who was named principal Monday.

Rodger Benway, 36, of 615 Harvard Drive, Edwardsville, a teacher at the school for 30 years, was named principal by the District 12 School Board on Monday. On Wednesday he said the school, at McCambridge Avenue and Rhodes Street, is likely to be closed.

"Our school's not going to be here too many more years because of the declining enrollment. There aren't too many projects that can be planned," Benway said.

There were 157 students enrolled in the 1986-87 school year, Benway said. Enrollment figures for this school year are incomplete, he said.

District 12 Superintendent Dan Kostenski said the School Board hasn't determined if Louis Baer will close, but the board is examining closing the school because it appears to be costing too much to keep the school open to serve 157 students.

He said information regarding costs and enrollment will be gathered during the next several weeks for the board to evaluate.

"Closing a school has always been a controversial and emotional issue for a school district," Kostenski said.

In the meantime, Benway said, because he likes science he plans to establish a science fair at the school for "at least one year."

Benway said he wanted the job because he is qualified and knows the school after having taught there since 1957.

Port district budget OK'd

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The fiscal 1988 budget for the Tri-City Regional Port District was passed Tuesday by the Board of Commissioners.

The budget shows projected expenditures of approximately $50,000, said Bob Wydra, port general manager. That's about an $80,000 increase in expenditures over last fiscal year, Wydra said.

Revenues for the fiscal year are estimated at $1.2 million, a $300,000 increase from the previous year, he said.

The board also set a hearing for Aug. 31 at 4 p.m. for public comment on the issuance of up to $3 million in revenue bonds to pay for the completion of several projects at the port.

The hearing will be held at the port office, 2801 Rock Road. The board will vote on issuing the bonds after the hearing.

Simon assails Gephardt's method of rescuing farms

By Judy Fahys
P-R/J Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Presidential hopeful Sen. Paul Simon has attacked the farm rescue plan proposed by Rep. Richard A. Gephardt, D-Missouri, another contender for the White House.

In an interview with this bureau, the senator from Illinois said production controls, the linchpin of Gephardt's popular Save the Family Farm Act, would not relieve the national farm crisis.

"If you have production controls, you are inevitably going to have shrinking rural communities, and I don't believe that is good for the country," said Simon. "I think the long-term answer is to increase demand."

farmers' referendum to help set commodity production limits. Support payments would be eliminated as demand and prices for United States' farm products increased in world markets, say proponents of the bill.

Lined up behind Gephardt's plan are the Missouri Chapter of the American Agricultural Movement and the National Family Farm Coalition, two family farm advocacy groups.

Simon also blasted President Ronald Reagan's plan to phase out price supports, saying that would leave farmers "hanging out to dry."

"We all have subsidies in one form or another," he said. "Subsidy aid is a subsidy, of course, but it's in the best interest of the nation."

In one of his proposals to boost demand for farm products, Simon has introduced legislation that would require 5 percent of automotive fuel to be corn-produced ethanol by 1992.

Last year, the use of ethanol in gasoline increased the price of a bushel of corn by 11 cents. Simon said, adding that ethanol use under his plan would add a dollar to the price of a bushel of corn.

Beatty orders Illinois to pay Medicaid for disabled widows

Judge William L. Beatty of the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Illinois has ordered the state to provide no-cost Medicaid to disabled widows.

The widows and widowers who will be eligible have been receiving Social Security disability benefits since December 1983. There are 180 such eligible widows and widowers throughout the state.

In 1983, Congress increased the amount of disabled widows' Social Security benefits, causing an inadvertent loss of Medicaid benefits.

To remedy this unexpected and harmful result, Congress passed another law in 1985 restoring lost Medicaid eligibility.

Linda Zazove, an attorney with the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation, says the lawsuit was necessary because the Illinois Department of Public Aid was refusing to implement the 1985 federal law.

Before the lawsuit, these widows and widowers were required to spend from $80 to $100 per month of their own money for medical services before being eligible for Medicaid, explained Mark Owen, an attorney with the Land of Lincoln Senior Citizens Legal Services Project.

Now, the monthly deductible will no longer be required.

"This will be a great benefit to these widows," said Owen, "because they are among the most severely disabled, with high medical costs and low fixed incomes."

Beatty is a Granite City citizen. His ruling was filed at the court's Alton office on July 31.

It affects Bertha Hill, Julia Branscomb, Mildred Haws, Wilma Westbrook and Geraldine Horvath, plus "all others similarly situated."

Class on coping with chronic lung disease

The course is designed to help people with chronic lung diseases learn more about their disease and its treatments, to improve their nutrition, to develop a more positive self-image and to reduce the need for hospitalization.

Members of the Barnes Respiratory Care Team will teach the classes. Topics include obstructive lung disease and its treatment, pulmonary hygiene, exercise, medication, diet and nutrition, and coping.

Free parking is provided in the Barnes subsurface garage across the street from the hospital.

Granite City native helps child win battle with hunger, disease

By Craig Bird
Special to the P-R/J

LILONGWE, Malawi — Her faith and her 5-month-old daughter were all the woman had left when Granite City native Marilyn Upton met her.

Three earlier babies had been stillborn and a fourth had died after seven months because the mother was unable to nurse. After the birth of a fifth sickly child, the husband kicked both of them out, sending them to her brother.

She had named the girl Chifundo, which means "mercy." But physical evidence of God's mercy was slight. The baby cried constantly during a woman's meeting. Upton was leading, screaming even louder when the mother offered her a bottle.

Upton, formerly Marilyn Scone, is a Southern Baptist missionary. She was horrified to see that the nipple on the bottle was rotten. Later she learned the mother received powdered milk from a government clinic, but supplies had run out. For over a week she had been feeding Chifundo water and a thin porridge of cooked cornmeal and water.

The next week Upton conducted another woman's meeting at a village 15 miles away and was thrilled to find Chifundo and her mother there because we'd brought a new bottle, powdered formula and boiled water to give her. Chifundo greedily latched onto the bottle and Upton's 8-year-old daughter, Malinda, spent the weekend caring for the infant.

Upton's offer to take the baby for a checkup to a doctor in Lilongwe, 60 miles away, was turned aside, but the mother said they could take her the following week.

The next weekend, at yet a third church, the mother willingly "loaned" her baby to Upton. The examination showed the baby weighed barely more than 8 pounds and was suffering from malaria, bronchitis, ear infection, conjunctivitis, scabies and worms, in addition to being severely malnourished. Later in the week she developed thrush.

On Sunday, Upton and her husband, Sam Upton, took Chifundo back to her mother, at worship services at a fourth church. Though obviously missing her daughter, the woman quickly agreed at the end of the day to let the baby return with Marilyn Upton for another week. Chifundo gained almost 3 pounds before returning to live with her mother.

Marilyn Upton kept the mother supplied with formula until the government clinic got a new supply of powdered milk. Five months later, Marilyn Upton reported, Chifundo weighed 16 pounds and was grinning displaying two teeth.

"The father had taken his wife and daughter back, so we're thankful for the healing God has brought to their home as well as for the healing of Chifundo's body," Upton said.

County Democrats late in filing report

The Madison County Democratic Central Committee is one of 145 state political committees that failed to file a campaign disclosure report July 31, the State Board of Elections said.

The report of contributions and spending for a 12-month period is required under the Illinois Campaign Financing Act. Treasurer Daniel Donohoo said Aug. 6 he was "working on the report right now" and "it will be in within a day or two."

He blamed a secretary quitting without notice for the report not being filed by the legal deadline.

The elections board said committees filing within the next 30 days will avoid potential fines. SBE Chairman Teresa Petrone said, "Failure of the state committees to timely file the annual report deprives the public of having access to this information" and the board "intends to vigorously pursue the delinquent committees."

Dedication of area war veterans nursing home slated for Aug. 21

Veterans, patriotic organizations, and political and military dignitaries from Illinois and Missouri will participate in a dedication service on Aug. 21 at 9:30 a.m. at the Jefferson Barracks Division to formally celebrate the opening of an addition to the Nursing Home Care Unit of the VA Medical Center, St. Louis.

The Veterans Administration Nursing Home Care Unit now has 153 beds — 60 in the new addition, which was occupied April 17, 1987, and 93 in the older unit, which is scheduled for renovation.

The Nursing Home Care Unit was expanded to meet the needs of a growing elderly veteran patient population, according to John T. Carson, Medical Center director.

In 1983, the veteran population of the area that the St. Louis VA Medical Center serves was 396,050, with 160,350 veterans at age 55 years or older.

Projections have shown that although the total veteran population in this area will decrease by 1990 to 365,800, the 55 and older group will increase to 181,000.

Sidney M. Ford, Veterans Administration regional director, Midwestern Region, will be the keynote speaker at the Aug. 21 ceremony, and music will be provided by the St. Louis Legion of Veterans Band. Young members of American Legion Post 581 and residents of the Nursing Home Care Unit will participate in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The public is invited to the ceremony.

Trees dying of thirst

GRANITE CITY — Shriveling leaves on newly planted trees do not mean they are dead but they may be dying, said 4th Ward Alderwoman Judy Whitaker.

Whitaker said that about 45 of the trees appeared to be dead, but most of them are actually suffering from lack of water and shock after being re-planted.

Costello given $264,000, leaves Fields behind

WASHINGTON — More than one year before the 1988 general election, St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello, a Democrat, has amassed a campaign war chest far eclipsing his competitors' in the race to succeed Rep. Mel Price, D-Ill.

Costello has collected $264,894, according to Federal Election

Commission records which include contributions made through June 30.

No specific explanation for his resignation was offered by Biggs. The resignation was effective immediately.

Possible pull-out sparks county to talk with city

GRANITE CITY — The city's threat to withdraw from Madison County's Community Development program has the county reviewing the share of block grant money that goes to the city.

County Community Development officials Joe Parente and Cheryl Joubert promised several aldermen and Mayor Von Dee Cruse that the county will consider giving Granite City a larger share of CDBG money. If the city leaves the county program, the county will offer proposals to administer a program the city would have to start.

IP's rates forum topic

GRANITE CITY — About 180 Quad City Area residents gathered at the Granite City Township Hall where they heard the Illinois Commerce Commission and Illinois Power lambasted by several consumer groups.

The petitions call for a rollback of recent rate increases. Martin and 1st Ward Alderman Casmer Skubish organized the meeting.

State police, DCI moving

The Illinois State Police and Division of Criminal Investigation began moving into their new building in the regional state headquarters in Eastport Plaza, Collinsville, this week.

State police were scheduled to begin directing operations from the new building at 8 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 13. Telecommunicators and shift commanders start work there that day.

Furniture and other materials will be moved during the weekend.

DCI employees and the remaining state police employees will begin work at Eastport Plaza on Monday, Aug. 17, according to Capt. Bobby Henry, commander of District 11 of the state police.

State police are the first agency to move into the regional complex, which was in the planning stages for many years before construction began in 1985.

The Illinois departments of Transportation and Central Management Services are scheduled to move into the complex in September.

The regional complex was designed by Architectural Associates of Collinsville. The estimated cost is $11.7 million.

State police and the DCI will be moving from the building at Main and Center streets. State police moved there on a temporary basis in February 1983 after nine subsidiaries were detected at the headquarters in Maryville.

The DCI moved to Main and Center from Fairview Heights in July 1985.

Henry said state police have been cramped in their current offices, which have about 10,000 square feet. The DCI's space has been of a similar size.

State police will have 21,668 square feet in their new building. The DCI will occupy the second floor of the building — 16,412 square feet.

A firing range occupying an additional 9,500 square feet also will be located in the building.

About 40 state police employees and 50 DCI employees will work in the new building.

All-new radio equipment is being installed. New furniture has been ordered but won't arrive in time for the move, Henry said.

United Illinois Bank has purchased the building and property currently being used by state police. The property had been owned by Madison County Federal Savings and Loan.

The new state police DCI building has a total of 52,885 square feet.

The four buildings on the complex will have a total of 152,700 square feet of space and there will be parking for more than 300 cars.

Developers donated the 13-acre site to lure the complex to Collinsville. The city extended a water line to the site.

The City Council authorized sale of $15.3 million in revenue bonds to pay for the project. The bonds will be paid off through leases on the facilities; the city will have no liability for repayment of the bonds.

Q: Nearly 5 years ago, I defaulted on a loan. I'm in the process of applying for another loan and I am concerned about the questions on the application pertaining to my repayment record. Since this default was so long ago, I am tempted to skip those questions. I, of course, don't plan on defaulting again, inasmuch as my employment situation has changed considerably, and I am much more financially responsible and able to meet my obligations. I'm just afraid to remind the lender of my past indiscretions. Is this acceptable?

A: No. Your past default will probably cost you several rating points when your new loan application is reviewed. It may or may not disqualify you from getting the loan. However, failure to report the default will automatically deny you the loan. Loan applications are checked thoroughly. Your best course of action in all such situations is to be totally truthful, no matter how embarrassing it may be. As you pointed out, your new situation will probably work for you, but failure to file a truthful application will definitely work against you.

Matthew 9:37... "The harvest truly is plentiful, but the labourers are few."

It is a true saying that no matter what shape you are in, there is always someone else who has it worse. Now rather than being comforted by this knowledge, we should be moved with compassion.

Here is an opportunity for you to become involved in God's work. You are doing better, you have it a little easier, you have something that you can give Jesus said, "Pray the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest."

As you pray to the Lord, be sure to listen also. He may be speaking to you. You may be the answer to the very prayer you are praying! He may be sending you.

The harvest waits. Will you go? Today.

BPW hears fashion talk

The Granite City BPW organization held its annual membership night at Charlie's Restaurant. The program was presented by the Membership Committee and featured Leah Levin and Barbara Smock of Casual Corners.

They presented styles and discussed "Building Your Wardrobe for Success," with a commentary and demonstration of fashions for the working woman. Jeanne Hornberger, membership chairman, presented a $25 gift certificate from Casual Corners to Gloria Drake.

Lisa Jones led the induction of five new members: Joan Willis, Nadine Ryan, Debbie Ming, Mary Helen Geroff and Cindy Clark.

Certificates of recognition were presented to members who have participated in the Clown Program either by making clown costumes or marching in parades in Edwardsville and Granite City.

After the program, a business meeting was held with Jane Isenberg, first vice president, presiding.

New projects were announced for community involvement and fund-raisers. A rummage sale or auction is planned for this fall, as well as the 20th Annual Style Show on Oct. 17, a kick-off for National Business Women's Week.

Members were asked to make donations to Phoenix Crisis Center.

The next meeting will be Aug. 19. The program will be presented by Daphne Smith of St. Elizabeth's Medical Center on the Hospice program.

Bike rodeo for Cubs

Cub Scouts of Pack 1, sponsored by the Venice-Madison American Legion Post, held a bike rodeo at the Scout home.

Scouts were assisted and judged by members of VFW Post 7451. Acting as judges were Grover Brannon, Neverson Dolar, Dave Hays, Lester White Jr., Al Endicott, Hank Schnell and Lester White Sr.

The winning boys received gold, silver and bronze tie slides that were embossed with bikes and wolf, bear or webelos insignias. All participants were presented with certificates.

Winners were: 8-year-old division, Donald Harris; 9-year-old, Timmy Britt, Keita Kennedy and Michael Katana; and 10-year-old, Antwan Anderson, Chris Harris and Will Glasper.

Timmy Britt received a bike flag, donated by the Breeze Bike Shop, for the safest bike.

Presented by Cubmaster Greg Katana to Keita Kennedy was a Bear Book and silver arrow under the Wolf rank. Anderson received his Webelos book and colors.

Receiving soccer and archery belt loops were Britt, Glasper and Antwan Griggs, who had just returned from Camp Sun-nen's Webelos camp where they received activity pins. Glasper and Griggs earned the outdoorsman pin, while Britt received the outdoorsman, athlete and naturalist pins. Britt also received the Cub Scout Sports letter.

This was the third activity for the summer held by the Pack. Any boy who attends all three activities will receive the Summer-time Pack Award. The pack will attend a Cardinal baseball game Aug. 31.

Following the rodeo, hot dogs and chips were served.

Also attending were Ben Cul-lum, Candy Nash, Arlene and Gregory Katana, Norma Cullum, Bernard and Evelyn Harris, Pat and Rich Foote, Dottie and Gary Mouser and Jennifer, Darrell and Darrell Jackson Jr., Pat Young, and guests Barb, Darren and Mandy Isbrecht.

A Cub Scout Roundtable was held at the Venice scout home Aug. 11. The theme was American flags. Special beads were given to daycamp workers and attendants.

Applicants will vie to be cadets in Coast Guard

The United States Coast Guard Academy is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, Class of 1992.

Applications are being accepted for both men and women. Appointments as Coast Guard cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition, with no congressional appointments or geographical quotas.

Applications for appointment must be submitted to the Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, prior to Dec. 15, 1987.

Candidates arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the Dec. 12, 1987, administration for the ACT and the Dec. 5, 1987, administration for the SAT.

Competition for appointment as cadet is based on the candidate's high school rank, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school extracurricular activities, community affairs and/or part-time employment.

Most of the successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and demonstrate proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

To qualify for the competition, an applicant must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1988.

All applicants must be assured of high school graduation by June 30, 1988.

Regulations stipulate that all applicants must have completed three units in English and three in mathematics to include algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents — and must fulfill basic physical requirements.

Coast Guard cadets obtain an excellent undergraduate education at no personal expense. In addition, they receive pay and all allowances fully adequate to fulfill their ordinary living expenses, a spokesman said.

The constantly updated academy curriculum leads to a bachelor of science degree with a strong academic emphasis on engineering and science.

The major studies, when combined with varied elective courses, establish a solid foundation for a challenging career, the spokesman added.

Graduates of the Coast Guard Academy are awarded a bachelor of science degree and are commissioned as ensigns in the U.S. Coast Guard.

Selected officers may pursue further postgraduate education and specialized training at many leading civilian and military graduate or professional schools, in such fields as aviation, business administration, electronics, engineering, law and oceanography.

A typical young academy graduate can look forward to a varied, exciting, and demanding career as a regular Coast Guard officer, academy officials say.

The Coast Guard performs essential humanitarian missions vital to the safety and saving of lives at sea.

Under the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard establishes and coordinates search and rescue operations by ship and plane, maintains advanced electronic and other aids to navigation scattered around the globe, operates the icebreakers which clear the way for all polar expeditions, and enforces marine law and all aspects of merchant marine safety.

In addition, the Coast Guard has responsibility for boating safety and marine environmental protection.

For further information, the address is Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Ct. 06320 or (203) 444-8501 may be called.

Workshop at SEMC

The Nursing Department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center will hold a workshop on "The Effects of Aging" on Friday, Aug. 28, from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in Paschal Hall.

"The program is designed to orient the health care worker to the expected changes in the process of aging so that he or she may prevent some of the complications that could develop," said Edna Perkins, R.N., SEMC staff education instructor.

Cost is $30. A full refund will be available if notification is received by the Nursing Education Department 10 days in advance of the workshop. This workshop has been approved for six Illinois Nurse Association contact hours.

For more information on how to register, call 798-3840.

SIUE pioneer of gerontology looks ahead to new horizons

An authority on the characteristics of aging, Robert B. Hawkins, shows little indication that he intends to let the process affect his own activities.

Hawkins, 63, is retiring after 28 years on the speech faculty at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

His colleagues arranged a retirement party for him at the University Center.

Hawkins plans for active work extend well into the future. With his wife, Corinne, the Alton resident leaves in August for a six-month appointment by the University of Maryland to teach at a U.S. military base in Germany.

"I'll be teaching speech, American history and managerial communication to Army, Air Force and civil service workers. We plan to stay for two years if there is an opening. Then we hope to work for awhile in the Far East," he said.

Eventually he will return to this area for some teaching, consulting and writing, and a renewal of the broadcast activities he has made his voice familiar to area listeners. He has produced and moderated many radio programs on topics ranging from gerontology to politics.

He and wife also hope to bicycle across the U.S. "We haven't done that yet, but we have made bike trips across five Midwest states," he said.

Mrs. Hawkins shares her husband's belief in the benefits of combining scholarly and physical activity. She taught psychology and swimming at SIUE, Lewis and Clark Community College and elsewhere.

"Between us we have five children. They are grown and scattered, and that gives us a lot of freedom," Hawkins said.

Hawkins grew up in Grand Rapids, Mich. He recalls receiving his first football from a college acquaintance, future President Gerald Ford.

Hawkins saw World War II duty as an Army combat engineer officer, participating in the invasion of the Philippines and occupation of Japan.

His interest in broadcasting and speech was fanned during the occupation when he was assigned to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Civil Information and Education Section in Tokyo.

Helping him get the job was a Japanese pen pal of boyhood days who became a wartime assistant to the propagandist broadcaster known as Tokyo Rose, Hawkins said.

Before coming to SIUE, he taught college-level courses at Northwestern University, Indiana University's East Chicago Extension Center and Wright Junior College in Chicago.

The birth of SIUE had taken place just two years before he arrived. "I was one of three people on the speech faculty. I had classes in Alton, East St. Louis and Edwardsville," he recalled.

With a background of graduate research on the rhetoric of New Deal politics and the humor of Adlai Stevenson, Hawkins quickly became active in producing radio shows on political and social issues.

"In the early days, we would make the tapes in my office and take them down to WOKZ, which was what the Alton radio station was called then," he said. The subject matter often was controversial. "In one, I debated Phyllis Schlafly on whether university professors should have to sign loyalty oaths."

Hawkins' interest in gerontology "came about through my own middle aging and my mother's old age, and many of my good friends who were older adults," Hawkins said.

Gerontology study and research at SIUE have grown gradually to involve various departments including psychology, art, and Hawkins' specialty, speech communication. "It has been incorporated with regular courses as budgets have permitted," Hawkins said.

For nine years, he has been co-director of the Dialogue with Senior Citizens group on campus, and he is completing a two-year term as president of the area chapter of Sigma Phi Omega, a national society of gerontology-involved professionals.

Appropriately, the last course he taught in the summer term was on communications problems of the aging. He is co-authoring a book on communications and the aging process.

Although Hawkins will no longer be active in the gerontology institution and awareness programs at SIUE, he hopes his research will be useful "not only to the students, teachers and other researchers, but to the service providers who have so much contact with the elderly."

He will continue to be active in the field of aging, but he will have less contact with the elderly.

Living Every Day

HOPE...THE EMOTION THAT HELPS US LIVE EVERY DAY

In the 16th Century Martin Luther wrote, "Everything that is done in the world is done by hope."

He was right, hope is the mechanism that keeps the human race alive and dreaming. To hope, no matter what the circumstances, is a natural and healthy attitude for all living things.

Many people view hope as an unrealistic activity that gets us nowhere. They couldn't be more wrong!

Hope is not the opposite of realism, it is the opposite of cynicism and despair.

It was found after World War II that American prisoners who had been convinced they would come out alive and who focused their minds and spirits on life as it was going to be lived in the future emerged with much less damage than those who felt that they would never go home again. Lack of hope, is one of the major causes of depression. Depressed people tend to regard every minor obstacle as an impossible barrier and feel that responding to anything is useless because, "Nothing that I do matters." Depressed people begin to get well when they begin to believe again that they can be effective human beings and can control their own lives.

As natural and as vital as hope is, we can lose it. As many of us grow older, hope simply grows tired as our lives grow tired. What can we do to refresh our hope once it has grown tired?

The first thing we can do is simply, "Hope for the Moment." We all have times when it is hard to believe in the future, when we temporarily aren't brave enough for the future. When this happens concentrate on the present. Learn to hope for one day's mercy at a time. Look forward to the beauty of the next moment, the next hour, the promise of a good meal, the stars tonight and the sun in the morning. Sink roots in the present, until the strength grows to think about the future.

Next, "Take Action." Get out of dead center. Even if you feel you can't change anything else in the world, the one thing that can change is yourself.

Finally, "Believe in Hope." Don't be persuaded that the cynics and pessimists have a corner on truth. These people would rather live in a fog of skepticism, rather than chance disappointment.

BOB THOMAS
President

The minute you say that there is no hope, you are giving yourself all against action.

Even if we are not going to win. Even if death and disaster are inevitable. Hope is worthwhile because it enables us to drain the last drop of joy from whatever time that we have left. Hope will strengthen us to meet whatever fate has in store for us. Hope will help us to Live Every Day.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

If a man checks into the hospital, can the wife be held responsible for his bill even if she did not personally guarantee payment? A substantial balance frequently is owed to the hospital when there is inadequate health insurance coverage and the husband has an extended hospital stay. The hospital may wish to pursue the wife for collection in situations where the husband dies or when the wife has more assets and thus is better able to pay.

The Illinois Family Expense Statute states that the "expenses of the family" shall be chargeable to both husband and wife. Various cases in Illinois have indicated that one expense of the family for which either spouse can be held responsible is medical treatment. Thus in our example, if the husband incurs a hospital bill, the medical provider can look to the wife for payment. This is true even if she had no knowledge of the hospital stay and did not consent to it.

In one recent case, a man was hospitalized for an extended period. His insurance paid approximately 80% of the bill, but the balance owed was $15,000. The man died shortly after returning home, and the hospital looked to his wife for payment. The wife avoided paying the bill for four months following her husband's death.

Eventually the wife became ill, and she was admitted to a hospital. She also stayed in the hospital for an extended period of time, and upon her discharge, she had incurred another $6,000 in charges. When she arrived home, the hospital contacted her with regard to paying her late husband's bill and her own charges. Under the Family Expense Act, she certainly owed the entire sum. However, she died before any of this outstanding balance was paid.

After her death, the question arose as to whether her heirs owed these hospital bills. Certainly the hospital could not collect any monies from her family since they did not personally guarantee payment of the hospital charges of either the husband or the wife. The hospital could, however, file a claim against the estate of the deceased woman to satisfy the indebtedness. This claim would have to be filed by the hospital within six months of the time the estate was opened.

Grant will focus on minorities in schools

WASHINGTON — The National Governors' Association awarded grants totaling $22.145 to help three states implement recommendations outlined in "Time for Results: The Governors' 1991 Report on Education," and "A Nation Prepared," the report of the Carnegie Forum Task Force on teaching as a profession.

The grants are part of NGA's Restructuring Schools Project, which is funded by a grant from Carnegie Corp. of New York.

A $14,645 grant to Illinois' State Board of Education will help Illinois develop approaches to strengthen both the achievement of minority students and the recruitment and retention of minority teachers.

These funds will support a portion of the work of the Joint Committee on Minority Student Achievement, which was established by the State Board of Education and the Board of Higher Education.

Initial efforts of the joint committee will focus on a seminar in which a panel of persons of national standing will consider factors that contribute to low academic achievement among minority students, factors that increase achievement, and policies that improve academic success of minority students and the recruitment and retention of minority teachers.

The grants were awarded from a $200,000 grant pool, established to give direct assistance to states implementing recommendations from the NGA report and the Carnegie report.

The grant pool is part of an $800,000 grant awarded to NGA to help states strengthen the teaching profession and restructure America's schools.

NGA will award a total of 10 to 15 grants.

State news

Grant to help teens live on their own

A $1,810,989 federal grant to help youths aged 16 and older make a successful transition from state-supervised care to independent living has been awarded to the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services. The program is expected to begin in late fall.

According to DCFS Director Gordon Johnson, "There is a growing number of adolescents in foster homes, group homes and institutions in critical need of preparation for independent living. There are 4,700 who are 16 and over in our care."

The grant will be used to teach these teens such skills as banking, keeping records, establishing a household, shopping and getting a job.

Problems of family focus of conference

Gov. James R. Thompson has proclaimed Sept. 13-19 as Family First Week in Illinois to signify the importance of family life to society and to individuals, and a variety of events will be staged throughout the state to celebrate the observance.

A Governor's Family First Conference Sept. 17-18 in Springfield will cap activities. The meeting will show participants how to marshal community resources to meet the needs of children and families. They will also learn about successful efforts to combat teen pregnancies and will review the role families play in preventing teen parenthood.

DCFS loses 53 jobs to state budget cuts

Fifty-three administrative personnel from the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services have been notified they will be laid off due to budgetary restrictions. The move is effective Aug. 31.

Five of those employees who have been laid off are from the director's office in Springfield, 18 from the Cook County regional offices and 20 others from central administrative offices in Springfield. No DCFS employees who have direct casework responsibilities will be affected. The layoffs represent 10 percent of the department's 558 administrative staff.

Doctors being alerted about insurance firms

The Illinois Department of Insurance has received information that an unauthorized insurance company, Casualty Assurance Risk Insurance Brokerage Co., is soliciting medical malpractice insurance business from Illinois physicians. The company, located in Guam, is not licensed in Illinois or any other state, and doctors are being warned against buying malpractice coverage from this entity.

An affiliate company, New World Financial Trading and Reinsurance Corp., also headquartered in Guam, may also be involved in illegal solicitations, according to the Illinois Department of Insurance.

"Illinois doctors should be certain they are buying malpractice insurance from a licensed company, but if they choose to buy coverage from an unlicensed entity, they should be fully aware of the risks involved should a claim arise," said Insurance Director John E. Washburn.

'Taste of Illinois' ready for fairgoers

A new exhibit at the Illinois State Fair, Aug. 12-23, is designed to encourage shoppers to look for and purchasing food products that come from Illinois.

The exhibit, at the Illinois Building on the State Fairgrounds, showcases products from more than 100 food companies that manufacture or are headquartered in the state. The exhibit includes a 72-foot sampling counter featuring more than 300 different products.

Job searchers can give computers a try

A do-it-yourself approach to job hunting — the high technology hit of the 1986 Illinois State Fair — returns to the Springfield exhibition grounds Aug. 12-23 this year and then moves to DuQuoin for an Aug. 29-Sept. 7 run.

Computers will identify openings and applicants without using names. Users will be referred to a job service office to complete an application. Applications will then be screened and job seekers referred to that specific opening. Employers will be similarly served.

As Dr. Doolittle said, 'Talk to the animals'

Having just suffered the loss of our family's pet dog at the age of 17½, equivalent to a human age of about 120, we were thinking about the wonderful impact of pets when some confirming information arrived from the Furina Pets for People Program.

In a survey of 648 senior citizens who have adopted animals through the new national program, heart-to-heart conversations (96 percent) topped the list of activities they enjoy most with their pooch or tabby.

Watching TV (76 percent), curling up for a nap (61 percent) and just sitting together (62 percent) while reading or sewing (by the senior citizen, not the pet) also made the top of the list of shared activities between people and their pets.

Daily walks (51 percent) and teaching pets to perform tricks (48 percent) also were popular. We suspect David Letterman must have had something to do with the survey.

Offered in conjunction with groups like humane societies, Pets for People pairs persons 60 and older with homeless shelter animals at no charge.

It has been found that a typical senior citizen is likely to live longer if he or she has a pet. In the survey, the men and women agreed that owning a pet reduces stress and tension (90 percent), helps them maintain their independence (75 percent), provides a reason to exercise (76 percent), encourages them to take better care of themselves (68 percent), makes them feel less lonely (98 percent), makes them happier persons (96 percent) and makes it easier to meet people (50 percent).

Conceding that pets are a health plus-factor, how much of a negative factor is dioxin?

In Belleville, the defense has rested its case in one of the longest jury trials in U.S. history. It's the Kemmer versus Monsanto Co. case in the St. Clair County Circuit Court.

The proceedings began Feb. 22, 1984, and the final piece of evidence was presented Aug. 5, nearly 3½ years later.

The case involves an accidental spill of toxic waste. The question is whether damages should be awarded. If there is an award, how big should it be?

Youngsters with serious illnesses are among the victims of state budget-cutting. The Press-Record/Journal noted as part of its comprehensive coverage of a Granite Citian's plight last Thursday.

In addition, due to the tight budget, Alton's Lovejoy State Historical Monument will get some cosmetic cleaning but no major facelift before the 150th anniversary of the martyred editor's death this fall.

Highland will celebrate its 150th anniversary with activities tonight through Sunday at Lindendale Park.

A nightly pageant will trace the city's long history.

Other highlights will include a parade at 10 a.m. Saturday featuring horse-drawn carriages and wagons, Clydesdale horses, marching bands, and floats pulled by antique tractors.

There will be both a Civil War era dance and a 1950s dance on Saturday, and a fireworks display at 9 p.m. Sunday.

A preliminary investigation is being made by the staff of Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen of allegations of police misconduct, in Troy.

DCI

Police probe includes city's firefighters

The DCI's probe into test scores started in April. It began with questions about test scores attained by two Granite City patrolmen who scored first and second in the nation on the police sergeant's test taken in July 1985. The two were promoted to sergeant, based partly on the test scores.

Police tests were mailed to the home of 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney, who was chairman of the Police and Fire Commission when the police tests were taken in 1985.

Partney has alleged the investigation was sought by Mayor Von Dee Cruse's administration for political reasons because Partney is considered a mayoral rival in 1989. Cruse has repeatedly denied the allegation.

Granite Township distributes money to local taxing bodies

GRANITE CITY - Granite City Township distributed its first installment of 1986 property tax collections, totaling $215,000, on Wednesday, said Nick Petrillo, city treasurer and ex-officio township collector.

The sum represents three days of collections, according to an office spokesman. The bills were mailed out by the Madison County treasurer's Office late last week.

The money was distributed to the city, township, Community Unit School District 9, Belleville Area College District 52, Metro East Community District, Granite City Park District, Granite City Public Library and the city's Police Pension and Fire Pension funds.

As a teacher, Benway would have made $31,405 this school year, but as principal his salary will be $35,000, a $3,595 increase, Kostenecki said.

There were 16 applicants for the post, left vacant when Robert Barnhart retired at the end of the 1986-87 school year.

Kostenecki said the board voted unanimously to hire Benway, who has a master's of science degree in education from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and an all-grades supervisory certificate for administration that enables him to be a principal. He is a certified elementary school teacher.

"When you've got a guy from your school like that, it's different than going outside," Kostenecki said. "You know exactly what you've got."

ed. It gives an opportunity to hire two people... for a better management position. This way, it does insure that it's from a rank next in line," Cruse said, referring to the requirement that a lieutenant colonel be from the rank of captain.

Cruse said the selection of Lengyel was a tough decision.

"We had three well-qualified captains. Any of the three would have made a good lieutenant colonel. But there can be only one," he said.

Cruse said he hopes decisions by future mayors on the lieutenant colonel's post won't be politically motivated.

"I'd like to get it to where these people are assured of their jobs whoever the mayor is," he said.

There are two other captains in the police department: Capt. Gerald Pinkerton and Capt. Glenn Wright. Pinkerton has the most seniority of the three.

Another officer from a lieutenant's rank will be made a captain to fill Lengyel's old rank.

"Everybody moves up one," said Cruse. He said the officer will be chosen through testing, as are all ranks from captain on down.

Chairman of the Police and Fire Commission, Bruce Grone, said the commission will administer a test within 30 to 60 days to any lieutenant who wants to take a captain's test. A captain will be chosen from the top three scorers on the test, Grone said.

The mayor also appoints the police chief with approval of the council.

and many houses in the area are part of the township. It's his opinion that we can petition to de-annex and Nameoki Township would accept us," Bernaix said.

"We've been having problems with the tax assessor's office. The rate we pay is higher than the rest of Granite City," Bernaix said.

According to state statutes, the city reserves the sole right to decide whether a property can be disconnected from the city, said City Attorney Mark Goldenberg. He said the disconnection petitions are under review by the City Council's Planning, Zoning and Annexation Committee.

The tax issue involves a state construction grading system used by the assessor's office to determine how much a property is worth, Bernaix said. He said Granite City Assessor Darlene LaPrade changed the properties from a grade "C" to a grade "B" that automatically increases the assessed valuation and ultimately the tax rate.

Bernaix said he did not think the change was fair because the property was given the "C" rating when it was built and the property has not been improved since then.

"None of them were given straight B's. As far as the grades raising and then the taxes, that's not true," Zedolek said.

She said that most of the houses were given a lower "B" rating that is the same replacement cost number as the "C" rating. She said the re-assessments were done in accordance with state guidelines.

Harshany said he was given a relatively high "B-S" rating that eventually caused his taxes to be raised by 15 percent.

Zedolek said that, while Nameoki assessments are generally lower, Madison County Assessor Robby Harris is planning to re-evaluate many areas of Nameoki Township that could increase the assessed valuations. Harris was unavailable for comment Wednesday afternoon.

Harshany estimates that he could save from $200 to $400 a year if his property was disconnected from Granite City.

Harshany said he could not understand why Granite City has not acted on his request.

"If they feel I cannot disconnect from the city, why not just say 'no' and be done with it. And then we'll go to court and take it from there," Harshany said.

He said he expects more residents in the area to look into disconnecting from the city.

"We're just the tip of the iceberg," Harshany said.

Granite City group performs at Charlie's

By Joe Thompson

Granite City's girl-next-door is making headway on the music circuit.

Rose Bray is lead singer and bass guitarist for the Granite City-based rock group, The System.

Bray and her husband, Scott, who plays keyboards, have lived in Granite City for the last 1 1/2 years.

Also in the band is another Granite Cityan, Chris Vaught, who plays lead guitar and sings. His father, Jim, owns State Radio and TV Service of Granite City.

Drummer "Rocking" Dave Kantner, of Highland, rounds out the group, which plays Top 40 music and concludes a two-week run at Charlie's Restaurant on Aug. 16.

"I want to be sexy but not sleazy," says Bray. "You want to be the girl next door, but also this experienced lady." Vaught, who first played professionally at age 14, played for the legendary civic figure Harold Brown, retired superintendent of grounds and recreation director of the Granite City Park District.

"This city is loaded with musicians," said Vaught, who mentioned Herb Sandler, guitarist for the former Ike and Tina Turner group, and current entertainers Mary Burns, Jon Wasson, Rob Beckner, Rob and Gigi Hogan and Ed Bellini.

Rose Bray adds glitter to The System. While some bands dress in tattered jeans, T-shirts and sneakers, Rose's stage attire consists of black and gold leather mini-skirts and white and turquoise satin jackets.

"Wouldn't you rather see someone on stage dressed up like a star?" she asks.

One thing that sets Bray apart from other female vocalists is an exceptionally powerful range. It was strong range which got her tossed out of chorus as a junior at Rosary High School in St. Louis. Nothing personal—just a difference in style.

"I was waiting above everyone," recalls Rose with a smile. "I was singing Christmas carols in the Aretha Franklin style."

Her mother, Ann Kutryb of St. Louis, would understand. Rose was an infant on her mother's lap when they sang from the songbooks of Mitch Miller, Bessie Smith and the Andrews Sisters. Rose knew Tchaikowsky when she was three years old.

The family still supports her love of music. When Rose's father, Dr. Walter Kutryb, mails patients their bills, he includes a schedule of where his daughter will be performing.

Rose's confidence is catching up with her talent. "I used to worry about 'pleasing everyone,'" says Rose. "But not everyone can love you. You have to have faith in your singing that 90 percent do. I think I'm just starting to come into my own style."

Style notwithstanding, the audience comes first. Requests are heartily encouraged.

"We play to the crowd," says Rose. "Anybody sitting in front of us, from aunt Bessie to your little brother, Spike. If they want to hear 'New York, New York,' we play 'New York, New York.' But then we can turn around and do a song from Heart or Bon Jovi for a rock number."

Can't keep pace in highway race

In the never-ending search for truth and an easy column, I spent a terrifying half-hour recently testing the ridiculous theory that drivers on our urban highways are not going any faster since the speed limit was raised outstate.

Sure. And it will be 40 degrees this weekend with snow flurries. I started my watch at the edge of the Land of 55. It was on I-55 at the Burnhart, Mo., exit headed north. South of there it's legal to do 65 mph. North of there it's supposed to be 55 mph. It was obvious the theory was in big trouble when I slowed down to 55, got passed by a few blurs, and then noticed a car on the outer road making about 10 feet per second on me.

This was not rush hour—it was about 3 p.m. on a Wednesday—but I was passed by 44 cars before I passed one. They were going by so fast I was keeping score five at a time.

My first victim was a 15-year-old Eldorado with its emergency blinkers on and smoke boiling out of its rusty tailpipe. But pass it I did, so we'll count it.

Martin on the Metro

By Pat Martin

I turned north on I-270. Between there and I-44, with me keeping a steady 55 mph, the score was 42-0 in favor of the passers.

From I-44 to Hwy. 40, another 86 cars shot past. By now the score was 122-1.

We were getting near the end of the road test. I was getting off at Olive Boulevard. Another 30 cars whizzed by, making the score 202-1, when I came on a comforting sight: an older, slower car than mine.

It was an 80-year-old man driving a 20-year-old Chevy. Both those numbers are estimates, but I'm confident the man and his car were more than a century old between them.

They were groaning along at about 45 mph. I passed them like they were a hundred years old. Then I shot off the exit ramp like I had just finished at Indy. The final score in the 28-mile trip was 202-2, which is a hundred to one in any oddsmaker's book.

The next time the legislature convenes and starts talking about how safe it would be to go 75, I'm going to pull out this scientific study and ask to testify. Sure, those guys are safe because they have diplomatic immunity and can drive to and from the state capital as fast as they want. They couldn't get a speeding ticket if they wanted to.

Let's make a deal with our friendly state legislators. We'll stay out of your way, or try to, as you go to session, and you leave well enough alone on the speed limit. Give us a little time to get used to killing each other at 65 before we graduate.

Besides the bloodshed, think of the machinery we'd be wasting. That Eldorado probably used to go 75 and look how it ended up.

Asbestos web snarls state's intent

(Comment by Dennis McMurray of the Alton Telegraph)
SPRINGFIELD — The best of government good intentions to protect school children from the serious health problem of exposure to asbestos appears to have spun its own entangling bureaucratic web.

First, Illinois legislators promised the state would pay for inspections and at least 50 percent of any "abatement" expenses to make the school houses safe.

It appears now they won't deliver on the inspection part of the promise for about three-fourths of the buildings.

Instead of appropriating state funds for abatement this spring, the General Assembly moved toward pushing that burden back onto local property taxpayers.

Second, the federal government is holding a gun to the school districts' heads, making what may be impossible demands.

It will be virtually impossible for most school districts in Illinois to get the inspections and plans required under a new federal asbestos law done in time to avoid potential fines from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, a state official has stated.

The law signed by President Ronald Reagan last October and the proposed U.S. EPA regulations to enforce it have "a lot of problems and lack some common sense," said Kent Cook, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health's asbestos program.

Because a state asbestos inspection program will only get to about 1,600 school buildings of 7,000 in the state, the other districts are "going to have to be forking out a lot of dollars locally for this," Cook said.

Even if the districts meet the cost, estimated at about $4,000 to $5,000 per building, most won't get approved inspection teams hired and laboratory analysis done in time to meet the federal deadlines, Cook added.

The proposed EPA rules for the federal law would require all school districts in the country (including non-public ones) to meet a deadline of having the inspections completed of all their buildings and have a "management" plan to prevent asbestos hazards submitted to the state by Oct. 12, 1988.

The Illinois districts lucky to get in the state-operated inspection program run by his agency are "the only ones that are safe right now," Cook said.

Ironically, those districts cited by the U.S. EPA for not meeting a weaker 1982 federal school asbestos hazards law were given "first priority" for the state inspection program.

Cook said he would be "very surprised" if the inspections required by the federal law take place in the other districts. He said it is impossible now for them to hire the certified inspectors because they are afraid of being held liable for lawsuits.

The legislature passed a bill in the fall to give immunity to inspectors doing the work for the state but it does not apply to ones the school districts would have to hire themselves, Cook said.

Even if the school districts were able to hire inspectors they would have to get the samples processed at private laboratories. Cook said they would be swamped and unable to meet the federal timetable.

Although he doesn't think it is "feasible" for the districts to do the inspections, Cook said his office will be setting up a series of regional information meetings and will be sending letters to all school district officials saying "they do have to get the inspections" under the federal law.

"I know a lot of school officials who are confused about all this," Cook added. Who could blame them?

Taxes can be paid locally

The Madison County treasurer distributed $690,000 Aug. 11, six days after real estate tax bills had been mailed. The Granite City treasurer made his first distribution from the tax receipts Aug. 12, forwarding $215,000 to the various taxing bodies.

What's happening? These are unusually fast allocations after a dismally late mailing of bills. Also, there is intensified competition between the county and local collection/distribution staffs.

It is perfectly legal to pay one's taxes directly to the county; first installments are due by Sept. 14 and second installments by Nov. 16. It is also proper to instead pay locally (in Granite City, Nameoki, Edwardsville and Venice townships) through Aug. 31, although the county doesn't say that on the bills themselves or in the bills' envelopes.

Madison County used to sit on property tax receipts, investing them for the county government's benefit, even though the county is only one of many agencies that share slices of the tax pie.

Many school districts and some cities and park districts, meanwhile, had to borrow heavily to make ends meet, with taxpayers paying the interest on the tax anticipation warrants.

The problem is not quite as serious today, but it hasn't entirely gone away. The Granite City Park District already has borrowed this summer and may have to borrow more.

The same agencies — schools, cities, parks, county, sanitary districts, etc. — ultimately are going to get the revenue whether it is paid to the county at Edwardsville or to the townships in Granite City, Nameoki, Edwardsville or Venice Township (Madison and Venice).

But based on past performance and attitudes, an eloquent case could be made for paying locally, this month, at least the first installment and, if you are willing, both installments.

Effective Sept. 1 each year, by law, the only collector is the county and its agents. (In some years, the billing occurred so late that townships were shut out together from participating in tax collection.)

Depending on where one lives, checks may be made out to Tax Collector Nick Petrillo in Granite City, Tax Collector Casey Krakowiak in Venice Township or Tax Collector Stephen Iensenburg in Nameoki Township.

Collection points include the City Hall in Granite City, the Venice Township office in Madison and the Nameoki Township office. In addition, tax checks to Petrillo or Iensenburg can be submitted at any of the five Quad City Area banks; tax checks to Krakowiak can be submitted at the Madison bank.

IP's rate cut isn't enough

While Illinois Power shareholders continue to reap dividends for a virtually monopolized service, the poor, the elderly, and the soon-to-be poor suffer.

In the midst of the rate controversy, on Aug. 11, the company announced paying "the 161st consecutive quarterly dividend on its common stock ... 66 cents per share on the common stock of the company."

The timing couldn't be worse. To see IP shareholders enjoying benefits from public misery is distressing.

The company can expect a continuation of the kind of outcry that has permeated throughout Granite City armed with petitions to get the rates rolled back.

IP's move to cut summer rates isn't enough to diffuse growing dissatisfaction. IP's summer rate change request won't cause a reduction in the amount of money it will get, just re-arrange the payment schedule.

What the company plans to do is more evenly distribute charges among other months, rather than compounding the entire year's rate increase into June, July, August and September.

The move will be a relief for those whose lives and lifestyles depend on air conditioning, but the public will still pay 18 percent higher bills for the year, and the public is rightly angry about those bills.

There is a saying that when a man reaches for a pile of coins, the tighter he squeezes his fist, the fewer coins he'll grasp.

The public has had enough. Its representative, the Illinois Commerce Commission, should react accordingly. The ICC will not be representing the public's interest until it starts saying no to Illinois Power's rate increases.

Soybean oil is healthier

Soybeans are important to the economy of Illinois and to the well-being of much of the world.

Area farmers have just found an issue that could help them meet both objectives. The issue? Tropical fats.

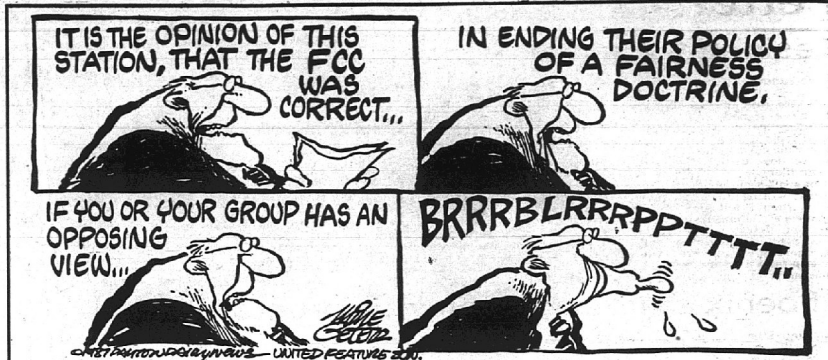

The Illinois Soybean Checkoff Board has chosen a strongly health-related emphasis. A spokesman says, "Soybean oil is lower in saturated fats (15 percent saturated) than palm (51 percent saturated), palm kernel (86 percent) and coconut (92 percent saturated)."

Product manufacturers report they also take into consideration texture qualities, availability and price. But these factors pale into insignificance when it is remembered that high levels of saturated fats have been shown to increase blood serum cholesterol, which can lead to heart disease.

In addition, new studies show there is no major price differential. The Foreign Agriculture Service lists 1986-87 metric ton prices of $388 for coconut, $337 for soybean and $308 for palm kernel oil. And soy oil also has become much more price-competitive with palm oil in the past two years.

Consumers deserve and can make good use of informative food ingredient labels. We join with local farmers in urging manufacturers to be more specific about the amount and kind of fats; at present, many use such phrases as "and/or" and "one or more of the following."

Task force seeking asbestos solutions

To the editor:

Public hearings before the Asbestos Task Force are an important step toward the time when asbestos will no longer be a threat to the health of Illinois citizens.

The Task Force, formed by me and Senate President Phil Rock in May, is charged with examining the asbestos problem in Illinois to determine its scope and to develop and coordinate cost-effective solutions.

The group is composed of 60 authorities in various fields, including medicine, education, health care and government. Testimony will be taken from experts in various fields, including medicine, education, industry, insurance, labor and government.

Current figures indicate there are over 3,000 state buildings that may contain asbestos. That does not include an additional 12,000 buildings operated by local units of government. This is an immense and dangerous situation, a ticking time-bomb, and Illinois must act now.

Asbestos is a mineral that was used freely from the 1940s through the 1970s as an insulating material in building construction.

It was learned, over the years, that the tiny filaments that constitute asbestos can break free and lodge in the lungs of people exposed to the material. This exposure can lead to asbestosis, an irreversible lung disease, and various forms of cancer.

My concern over the problem of asbestos intensified as I chaired the Asbestos Litigation Committee of the National Association of Attorneys General.

A number of states, including Maryland, Virginia and Massachusetts, have already begun programs to combat asbestos in public buildings.

In contrast, Illinois has not even begun a survey to determine where our asbestos problems exist. This task force is necessary beginning for Illinois.

We patterned the Asbestos Task Force on the successful Hazardous Waste Task Force formed in 1983. That group brought together top minds to battle a difficult environmental problem. From their deliberations came 14 new laws that have made Illinois a safer place to live and work.

We are making a three-pronged attack on this serious asbestos threat. The findings of the Task Force will be made available to the statutory Asbestos Abatement Authority, which was approved by the recent General Assembly.

The information assembled by the Task Force will be invaluable to the Authority in its efforts to abate the asbestos threat across Illinois.

The third prong of the attack is the Asbestos Litigation Division, established within the Attorney General's Office, which will work to recover the cost of abatement from the private sector.

I am very proud of the people who make up this Task Force. When the day comes that asbestos is no longer a threat to the lives and health of the people of Illinois, these Task Force members will deserve a large measure of the credit.

NEIL F. HARTIGAN
Illinois Attorney General

Economic news isn't a 'banana'

To the editor:

Alfred Kahn, who served as chief economic advisor to President Carter, once was rebuffed for publicly discussing the possibility of a recession.

Properly contrite, Kahn pledged never to do it again, promising to say "banana" every time the idea of a recession popped into his head.

For several years, we have been hearing predictions of another recession or banana — from critics who insist that the economic boom fostered by the Reagan administration is an illusion. They contend we can expect another banana any day.

Well, the banana has yet to appear and I don't expect to see one any time soon.

Both inflation and interest rates have perked up a bit of late, summoning memories of the frantic 1970s.

But the good news outweighs the bad by far. We continue to create new jobs at a record pace, and the vast majority of them are good jobs that pay well.

The trade deficit finally has begun to abate and is expected to decline even more rapidly in coming months, thanks to increases in our productivity and the decline of the dollar.

Even the federal budget deficit, which is the root cause of many of our problems, is turning downward at long last.

Best of all, as we get closer to 1988, the prospect of lower basic tax rates will convey to the market a strong message of good things to come.

I believe we can expect an upsurge in productive investment in anticipation of increased consumer spending which, in turn, should spark even faster job creation.

Of course, Congress could abort this impending economic takeoff. It could renege on the tax cuts, as several powerful members of Congress want to do.

Or it could enact some of the anti-job bills now working their way through the legislative mill — such as plant closing legislation, a hike in the minimum wage, parental leave, and mandated health benefits for all workers.

If Congress drives up the cost of creating new jobs, we will get fewer of them, no question about it.

But if Congress can resist the temptation to meddle, we can look forward to several months of moderate but sustained economic growth followed by several more months of robust expansion.

Many years ago, there was a popular song entitled "Yes, We Have No Bananas." To those who keep insisting we have economic troubles, I can only say — yes, but we have no bananas.

'Tusk, tusk' — Elephants fight

You don't know what "hate" is until you have eavesdropped on a divorce court.

We have been reading recently about such confrontations involving Joan Collins and Peter Holm and the William Friedkin split with Lesley Anne Down.

Apparently there is similar bloodletting when religious bedfellows fall out.

There are 2,000 Eastern philosophical religious systems in the United States and all are gaining followers — Hare Krishna, transcendental meditation, reincarnation, spiritualism, the New Age Movement — and all created to fill the vacuum created when mainline religions began discrediting themselves with intramural squabbling.

March 19, after admitting sexual indiscretion with a church secretary, evangelist Jim Bakker asked the Rev. Jerry Falwell to take over and run the PTL media ministry.

Falwell accepted, though I am sure he has since regretted that decision.

When the scope and scale of PTL resources became public, lawyers smelled paydirt.

At last count there were more than a dozen lawyers representing various factions involved in the squabbles.

And the lawyer for the Bakkers was regurgitating allegations which, in any other environment, would be grotesquely unbecoming.

Attorney Melvin Belli, for example, accused Rev. Falwell of doing "some strange things" with the PTL's financial records to the benefit of his own Lynchburg, Va., ministry.

Belli, the lawyer, is well aware that such a slur as "some strange things" leaves him legally in the clear while tending to condemn the Falwell ministry.

And inevitably, for all Falwell's denials, the aroma remains.

The worst is yet to come. Some big-money contributors to PTL want their money back. The IRS and two other federal government agencies are exploring past use of church money and other conduct.

A federal grand jury is investigating the PTL.

Inevitably, all ministries will suffer. The old Persian proverb says, "When elephants fight, the grass gets trampled."

Residents against IP rate increases

To the editor:

First of all let me say thanks to all you good citizens out there who have signed the petitions regarding the increased rates of the Illinois Power Co. and to those who have helped by going door to door getting the people to sign them.

I haven't seen one person who wasn't willing to sign them, which should tell our Illinois Commerce Commission and our governor that we are tired of being pushed around by these big companies and we aren't going to let it anymore.

Phoenix struggles to provide programs

To the editor:

We will have to sustain ourselves as best we can. It's a struggle, but we won't give up because of a measurable cut in our Victims and Witness Assistance Program state grant monies not being released as of yet through the federal grant appropriated through Madison County Community Development.

Our "bare bones" budget is bare! We've been using our general funds (donations) and the assistance of the token grant we received by the United Way for overall operating expenses. But until we meet all health, safety and insurance standards for our clients, we cannot open our doors to facilitate our on-site assistance. We have ongoing referral, legal advocacy and counseling services available, but we are so anxious to give our total support system to the victims of domestic violence. In the month of July we had to refer 47 women and children to other shelter care.

The Phoenix House volunteers and their coordinator, Judy Horton, have organized a Craft and Bake Sale to be held Aug. 15 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., at Central Christian Church (Branch Library entrance) 2020 Johnson

Our Illinois politicians out there: We the people put you in office and we the people can vote you out of office, so pay attention to what the people of Illinois are trying to tell you by signing all these petitions.

We are fed up with Illinois Power Co. making us pay for their Clinton plant whether we want to or not. What kind of freedom is this, anyway? We don't want to pay for something we don't want to pay for, and put it on our bills without our say-so?

Why don't we have competitors in regard to our power company, and the cable TV company also, so the people can have a choice to choose which company they want to serve them? Maybe if they had some competition they wouldn't be so big and powerful. Then they wouldn't be able to bleed us poor people to death.

I speak for the people when I say we've had enough and we're not going to take it anymore. We will be watching to see which of our government officials help us in this matter, and remember them on election day. We want our government officials to do something to stop it — now.

May, 1985, in our tiny office at C.V.S. to this date we have assisted women and children with shelter, food, clothing, counseling and legal advocacy and now with a larger facility new programs are being developed at this time — everything from parenting skills to G.E.D. preparation. We will be utilizing the counseling services of Central Baptist and Catholic Churches as well as networking with many local agencies according to the clients' needs.

We are in need of additional volunteers due to our growth. Non judgmental, caring people who are willing to share quality time are wanted.

The next Crisis Intervention Workshop for training of new volunteers will be held Aug. 27 and 31, and Sept. 1-3. A certificate upon completion of 15 hours is awarded. Instructors include staff members of Phoenix and Quad-City police.

Some vehicles roll over easily; avoid fast turns

To the editor:

Because of their high center of gravity, jeeps, vans, light trucks and other utility vehicles have a tendency to roll over.

According to the University of North Carolina Safety Research Center, the rollover rate nationally is 70.8 per 10,000 vehicles, compared to a rate for cars of 13.6 per 10,000 vehicles.

The research center also reports that utility vehicle fatality rates are as high as motorcycle fatality rates.

Since most utility vehicles roll over while turning, avoid abrupt turns and drive at moderate speeds.

When university researchers steered jeeps into 90-degree turns at only 22 miles per hour, all of them rolled over. —Passenger cars with the highest rollover rates were tested for comparison, but they showed no tendency to roll over at that speed.

If your utility vehicle starts to roll, you will feel the sensation of sliding. To abort a roll, take your foot off the accelerator — braking will provoke the roll more — and turn your steering wheel into the slide if necessary.

Some utility vehicle owners enjoy back-road driving as members of four-wheel-drive clubs. Drive at low speeds on rough, uneven back roads that you are unfamiliar with.

Your vehicle could easily roll over, and you could be injured in a remote area where there is nobody to help you.

Protect against stingers

To the editor:

It's important to protect ourselves from the stings of bees, wasps and hornets.

These insects, members of the hymenoptera order, kill more Americans each year than do spiders, snakes and scorpions combined.

Stings usually mean painful swelling which disappears in a matter of hours, but many people suffer allergic reactions: breathing difficulties, hives, or swelling in an area of the body other than where the bite occurred. In some cases the symptoms include dizziness, headache, abdominal cramps and extreme nausea.

The first allergic reaction is usually not severe, but should serve as a warning. The first sting sensitizes the victim, and subsequent stings will result in increasingly severe reactions.

A physician should be consulted the first time an allergic reaction occurs. Protection may include desensitization shots and medication for emergency use.

Allergic or not, to discourage stings, do not go outdoors wearing strong perfume, hair spray or any item that has a floral fragrance.

Because these insects are attracted to brightly colored clothing and flowery prints, wear subdued colors when you are outdoors — beige, green, khaki.

Hymenoptera stings, like all insect bites, should be washed thoroughly with soap and water. An antiseptic or baking-soda paste should be applied to relieve itching and prevent infection. In most cases, the swelling will disappear in a few hours.

Farm debt decreasing dramatically

To the editor:

To healthy future in farming will be a future where farm debt pulls its own weight in the farm operation rather than acting as a drag on the business. And that healthy future may arrive sooner than many people anticipated — just a year or two ago.

Either by intent or accident, farmers simply loaded up on too much unproductive debt in the '70s. Many will never forget how crushing that debt load was when interest rates soared, inflation declined and commodity prices plummeted.

While some producers still have unmanageable debts, total farm debt is falling and falling dramatically. A little more than two years after its 1984 peak, total debt had dropped more than 20 percent by the end of 1986.

Part of this decline in debt came from foreclosure and insolvency, of course. As much as one-fourth of the farm debt decline has come from write-offs of this type.

But farmers who are still solvent and still farming have been paying down debt, too — with a vengeance.

Many farmers burdened by high debt loads in the '80s are determined to make debt work for them rather than against them. They are avoiding purchases and investments that don't return dollars to their operations.

They are no longer making some investments primarily for tax purposes. They are making every borrowed dollar work harder. They are whittling down debt, and sleeping easier at night as a result.

This nationwide paying down of the farm mortgage will put agriculture in a better position to enjoy profitability in the future.

But the process of debt reduction must continue for some time. Caution, restraint, and pushing a sharp pencil will be the order of the day for most farmers.

Trial delays result in more criminal behavior human trait and, when it is rewarded, one can expect a heap of it in return. Conversely, when procrastination is made momentarily painful, it will be in short supply.

Defense lawyers win trials when they delay, forestall or complicate a proceeding; time definitely is an ally of the defendant.

Memories of witnesses fade as time goes by, as does their determination to testify.

Victims become revictimized by the calendar. This is especially true in rape and child molestation cases. As the trial wears on and on, victims are forced to relive the offense over and over again.

The judicial system suffers also. The interminable delays clog up the court calendars, requiring the services of more and more judges.

The slower the trial, and the larger the expense, the greater the possibility the defendant will get off scot-free, or at least, with a minimal sentence.

Public defenders recognize the merits of procrastination. Note this quote from a widely-circulated Public Defenders publication on advice to trial lawyers:

"Delay — A prosecutor usually wants to try a case when emotion is high. Time is a healing force. However, if you conclude that the case must be tried at some time, i.e., you don't think you can delay it to a better disposition, then decide when you think the best possible time is to try the case, perhaps December, just before Christmas, and try it then."

Here's another gem: "File lots of motions in every case ... You can even make motions challenging the configuration of the courtroom.

A quick and speedy trial is a joke when this kind of logic predominates.

Where did we go wrong? Simple. Americans were conned into paying defense lawyers out of the public till when Congress institutionalized criminal defense at the taxpayers' responsibility.

In creating the public defender's office, we made legal procrastination profitable.

Prior to that infamous day, the court appointed an attorney to defend the accused, or the alleged criminal had to pay for his own counsel. At that time, lawyers appointed by the Bench were not motivated by delay; a quick and speedy trial was expeditiously sought by both the prosecutor and the defense, because time was money.

Now, delay is money. What does a public defender have to lose? His salary remains the same. Time is of no financial consequence to him or to his client.

The public defender's office and the trial lawyers who are compensated for their time by the taxpayers have a vested interest in delay. That complicates the system.

They also advocate public expenditures to compensate "expert" witnesses. They take forever to select a jury. They engage in paper wars.

Procrastination pays. Years ago, our representatives bought the false line that public defenders were a necessary ingredient in providing justice. The opposite has happened.

Now the victim is victimized once more, this time by unwitting taxpayers who finance legal procrastination.

Any human action that is rewarded will increase. Crime does pay. That's why we have so much of it. So does legal delay; the two go hand in hand.

Alliance helps small firms

To the editor:

There's a feeling of excitement at the Small Business Finance Alliance office in Collinsville as an excitement that comes from seeing plans work, businesses succeed and jobs created.

The Small Business Finance Alliance is an alliance of 100 southwestern Illinois bankers and political leaders who use the funding of the Small Business Administration — married to local banking resources and private investment — to assist well-constructed and well-planned businesses to get the financing they need.

Incorporated in July 1982, the Alliance is the only SBA certified development company serving Bond, Clinton, Madison, Monroe, St. Clair, Randolph and Washington counties.

Its primary vehicle is the Small Business Administration 504 loan program. The loans include 50 percent from a private lender and 40 percent from the Alliance.

Funds loaned by the Alliance are raised by selling SBA-guaranteed debentures to private investors.

The remaining 10 percent — the fixed asset injection plus working capital — is provided by the small business concern.

One job must be created or retained for each $15,000 of the SBA portion of financing. Loan rates are near the Treasury bond rate and are fixed for 10- or 20-year terms.

The Alliance has closed 15 loans comprising $4,250,000 from the SBA and $4,855,137 from banks to complement $1,827,742 from the investor/applicants for a total small business commitment of $10,712,879. Over 500 new jobs have resulted.

Completed loans include one gift shop, one grocery, four restaurants, one engineering firm, two manufacturers, two professional corporations (a nursing home and a dentist's office), two auto repair shops and one farm implement business.

SBA 504 loans are only for fixed assets, not working capital or inventory.

Nor are they for businesses in trouble — they are for businesses that need to expand or to acquire buildings and machinery as fixed assets.

The borrower needs a good business plan, financial strength and the ability to repay the loan. Businesses aided under the SBA 504 program have an 80 percent success rate nationally.

As for the Alliance's loans, all are in good shape. One business funded in 1983 to create 14 jobs has expanded twice and has created 51 jobs.

A small business generally is one under 500 employees not dominant in its market and grossing less than $2 million annually. The average Alliance loan is $300,000.

The minimum SBA 504 project is $100,000 and there is no ceiling. The SBA loan portion is limited to $500,000.

The alliance board includes eight bankers and eight public officials. Officers are president Ronald W. Wallace, president of Union Bank of East St. Louis; vice president Harry Reichert Jr., Monroe County Board member; treasurer James P. Sweeney, board chairman of United Illinois Bank of Collinsville; and secretary Kenneth E. Evers, Edwardsville, retired Illinois Bell executive.

Directors are William S. Badgley of Belleville, president and chairman of the Magna Bank group; Mayor Ralph Dunn of New Baden; Lester D. Campbell, Washington County Board chairman; Jerry Costello, St. Clair County Board chairman; Leonard Ernsting, Randolph County Board chairman.

Also, Harold Byers, Madison County Board member; William C. Ladwig, president of the Bank of Red Bud; Robert A. Hoffmann, executive vice president of the First National Bank of Waterloo; William G. Frank, chairman of First National Bank of Okawville; Roger Riedemann, president of Bradford National Bank of Greenville; James R. Lampe, president of Germantown Trust & Savings Bank; and Frank Thompson, Bond County Board chairman.

I was working for the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission as a grant writer when the SBA 504 program was created, and was assigned to handle the creation of the Madison County Local Development Corporation, the first downstate Illinois SBA-certified development corporation. It took 11 months to fight through the paperwork and create the corporation.

When the work was completed, I was made the manager as the one most familiar with all its aspects. I moved from there to the Alliance created as the Southwestern Illinois Area-wide Business Development Finance Corporation. In 1984, I am a graduate of Collinsville High School and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Alliance at 344-4080.

Big leaguers set for camp in Mitchell

Venice native returns as leader | Gagliano backed up the greats

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

It will be a return to the Quad Cities of his youth when Ted Savage holds his Big League Baseball Clinic in Mitchell this Saturday.

Savage, a major league outfielder for eight teams in his 12-year career, is a native of Venice and went to East St. Louis Lincoln High School. He'll be coming back to this area to have some fun and teach some kids a thing or two about baseball.

The clinic will be held at the Mitchell Athletic Club fields on Greenwood Road from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

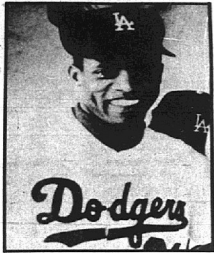

"I wanted to get back in touch with major league baseball and I thought this was a great way to do it," Savage said. "This will be our fifth camp and we've had quite a response everywhere we've gone."

The most recent camp was held in Belleville on July 11, with others being held in Memphis and Little Rock.

"This is the first time we've done it," Savage said. "We'd like to get started a little earlier next year and really expand it. And we're learning a lot of things we'll know exactly what to do in the future."

"It's something I would like to spread through the Midwest. They have all these fantasy camps now. We would like to carry that to the next level. We don't get that much of a chance to see big league players often."

Although the clinic is for the kids, there is definitely something for the older generation. After all, most of the camp instructors played in the major leagues long before the children at the camps were born. Most of the youngsters might remember Bob Gibson — but only as a broadcaster or pitching coach. Others like Phil Gagliano, Roy Sievers, Jerry Buchek and Joe Hoerner will be like a trip down memory lane for parents.

"But it's surprising how the kids still identify with us," Savage said. "I know the parents remember us more than the kids, but the kids still realize we were major league players."

Current Cardinal Tom Lawless is also scheduled to be on hand. "It's going to be a full day of baseball for everyone," Savage said. "We'll have registration for the kids, there is definitely something for the older generation. After all, most of the camp pitching, defensive play and running the bases."

"The kids will be broken up into age groups and they will be able to rotate so they can meet all of the instructors. Then we'll try to play a couple of games."

The day will wind up with a celebrity picnic from 3 to 5 p.m. Parents and children will have a chance to eat and visit with the staff. There will be opportunities for autographs and pictures.

"We have been averaging somewhere between 75 and 90 kids at the other camps," Savage said. "That's about what I thought it would be. And we wait to see how many kids show up to decide how we will handle the instruction."

Savage is appreciative of the way the ex-major leaguers give of their time.

"All of them are just super in dealing with the kids," he said. "I think they all want to give back a little of what baseball has given to them."

Savage broke into the major leagues with the Phillies in 1960 and played with the Pirates, Cardinals, Cubs, Reds, Dodgers, Brewers and Royals. He had two tours of duty in St. Louis, but just missed being on any of the pennant winners. He was here in 1963 and again in 1969.

Savage was involved in a famous play as a Cub in 1967 in St. Louis. The Cubs were desperately trying to close ground on the Cardinals in August and held a one-run lead with two outs in the ninth. Roger Maris was up with Lou Brock at third and Curt Flood at first.

Phil Gagliano might have been in the right place, but he was there at the wrong time.

Oh, he enjoyed his major league career. Make no mistake about that. But it was kind of tough being a utility infielder on the St. Louis Cardinal teams of the 1960s.

Gagliano, who will be one of the instructors at Ted Savage's Big League Baseball Clinic this Saturday at the Mitchell Athletic Club fields, was stuck behind some of the best infielders in the game.

"When I broke in with the Cardinals in 1963, they had an infield of Bill White, Julian Javier, Dick Groat and Ken Boyer," Gagliano said. "All they did that year was get elected to the All-Star team. All of them."

Not exactly a situation ideal for a youngster just up for the minors hoping for a lot of playing time. But Gagliano persevered and stayed with the Cardinals until 1970. But he never became a regular even after Boyer, White and Groat left. Dal Maxvill replaced Groat at shortstop in 1970. Mike Shannon came in from right field to third base to make room for Roger Maris, and Orlando Cepeda was acquired to take over at first base.

The infield that won a World Series in 1964 was transformed by 75 percent in two years, but the Cardinals returned to the top for two more pennants (1967-68) and a world championship (1967).

Phil Gagliano

"Those were just great baseball teams," Gagliano said. "They had the talent and they knew how to win."

Gagliano did contribute when called upon. He was involved in a big moment — as was Savage — in an important series with the second-place Cubs in August 1967. The Cubs were trying to gain ground, but had lost the first two games of the series at Busch Stadium in agonizing fashion. Now they led by one run with two outs in the ninth for the second time in three nights.

But Javier beat out an infield hit to load the bases and Gagliano drew a walk from Billy Hands to tie the game. Alex Johnson followed with a single to sweep the series and send the Cardinals to a runaway in the National League.

Gagliano was traded to the Cubs in 1970 and finished up with the Red Sox and Reds before retiring in 1974. Since then, the Memphis, Tenn., native has worked for Durbin-Durco, a manufacturing company in St. Louis.

But he has gone back into the baseball world this summer helping Savage in the clinics.

"I'm really having a great time with it," he said. "Ted gave me a call to see if I would be interested, and we've been barnstorming. We've had great response everywhere we've gone."

Gagliano said there is much more than 100 years of big league experience at the camp in the person of Bob Gibson, Roy Sievers, Joe Hoerner, Jerry Buchek, Jim Donohue and Frank Bauman.

"We have a first-hand knowledge of the game and we want to teach the kids good work habits," Gagliano said. "The kids don't always remember the older players, but the parents sure do. The object of the camp is to teach the kids, but the parents always end up having a great time."

"We were up a little apprehensive at first at how it would go over. We've done things kind of fast this year, but it's gone well and I hope we can really make it big next year. I hope we stay in Cardinal territory for the camps, but that's a big area."

High school cheerleaders attend camp

The Granite City High School cheerleaders attended the 1987 National Cheerleaders Association (NCA) camp at Southeast Missouri State University Aug. 3-7.

The 11 Warrior varsity cheerleaders were among nearly 900 cheerleaders from five states attending Southeast's NCA Superstar Clinic, the largest in the nation. Lynn McClure of Granite City also attended as a chaperone.

"The cheerleaders learned cheers, chants, exercises, leadership skills, crowd control, stunts, and dance routines," said Mrs. Juan Crites, campus coordinator of the NCA camp and director of public services at SEMO. "Everyone had a good time and let out a lot of spirit. In fact, there's more energy on the campus during cheerleader camp than at any other time. We could bottle it, we could make a fortune."

According to Crites, NCA instructors — some of the nation's top collegiate cheerleaders, gymnasts, stunt specialists and choreographers — travel to 47 states, eight countries, and 350 camps giving group and individual instruction to more than 100,000 cheerleaders per year.

Worden gets 10 in 1st to drop Chiefs to 4-7

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Since football season is approaching, it is to think how devastating it is to have the opposition run back the opening kickoff for a touchdown.

That's kind of how the Chiefs felt on Sunday, only worse. Talk about digging yourself a big hole. Worden struck for 10 runs in the opening inning and coasted to a 17-5 win in 3-M League play.

"It was one of those innings where nothing went right, obviously," said Chiefs manager Dennis Gurkin, who saw his team fall to 4-7 on the year. "But Worden has a good club. They beat us good. They are 9-2 and I would have to rank them right near the top of the league."

The day got off to an ominous beginning even before the game started. Saturday night's rain forced the Chiefs to move the game from their home field — Dul Maxvill Field — to SIUE, where Worden plays its home games. Unfortunately, Chiefs star Chester Banks didn't get the word in time and missed connections.

"I don't know how much of a difference that might have made," Gurkin said. "But Chester could have unloaded on our pitcher. It might have been a 17-16 game or something like that."

As it was, Dominic Griffin and Darrel Harris were roughed up for 10 in the first.

"Dominic hadn't really had a chance to practice much in the last two weeks and hasn't had time to warm up," Gurkin said. "So there's no way I can blame him. And Darrel was able to get them under control a little bit."

"It was just one of those innings where everything they hit found a hole. They didn't really smash the ball. It was just a lot of clean singles. You wonder if you're ever going to get off the field."

Dennis Gurkin Jr. supplied three hits and a pair of RBIs for the Chiefs while Bruce Nation added a couple of hits.

Even at 4-7, Gurkin is hoping for a fast finish.

"I guess I'm an eternal optimist," he said. "But we have five games left, and there's no reason why we can't win them all. We have Taylorville, which has the worst record in the league. And we have three other teams we have already beaten and another we lost to by only two runs. So we could end up 9-7. Nobody's quitting."

The Chiefs play at Dow this Sunday, then host Standard City next Sunday at Maxvill Field. All games start at 2 p.m.

DU's 50th anniversary to be marked at local chapter's banquet

This year's Granite City Ducks Unlimited dinner banquet and art auction is a little extra special.

Ducks Unlimited, an international organization which restores and rehabilitates prime waterfowl breeding grounds, is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year. DU chapters all over the country are celebrating with special commemorative, and the Granite City banquet set for Aug. 29 at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Aug. 29 promises to be the best in its four years.

Among the art that will be auctioned will be "Golden Retreat," the 50th anniversary DU print by wildlife artist Terry Redlin. A special commemorative Browning 12-gauge shotgun will be auctioned along with other prints, decoys and carvings.

DU was founded to aid waterfowl breeding grounds in Canada in 1937. More than 70 percent of North America's waterfowl are hatched in Canada. Those grounds were nearly destroyed as a result of the sudden and massive westward expansion after World War I and the subsequent draining and cultivation of the land. Severe drought in the 1930s has also contributed to the decline of continental waterfowl populations.

Since its inception, DU has completed more than 2,700 wetland restoration projects. More than $337 million has been raised, $228 million of which has been spent on wetland improvement and management. Membership now stands at approximately 377,000. The Greenwing program, initiated in 1973 for boys and girls under 18, now has a membership of more than 59,000.

There are 27,285 members in Illinois and 2,412 Greenwing members. Illinois was third among all states in dollar income ($375,670) and fourth in total income ($2,510,723).

DU and the Department of Conservation will conduct formal dedication ceremonies of a 680-acre parcel in Long Grove, Ill. The Pickrel Goose Management Unit is Illinois' first DU artist dedication.

Lewis Barkhausen, the third president of DU, donated his 1,000-acre Cub Island Duck Club to IDOT 25 years ago. It is now a portion of the sprawling 9,400-acre Sangamon State Wildlife Area. The Pickrel Goose Management Unit is adjacent to Barkhausen's former club. DU's MARSH (Matching Aid to Restore States Habitat) program, one component of the organization's Wetlands America project, appropriated nearly $300,000 towards acquisition of this property. Illinois state duck stamp proceeds will augment funding.

The area includes 100 acres of prime marshland and it has been designated a refuge, providing food and a rest area for Canada geese in particular.

DU's nationwide chapter committees form a platform from which to build fund raising activities. Each community helps generate participation in DU banquets and events throughout the year. The committees also perform as a public information and education tool on conservation issues.

Tony Zedolek is the local chairman for DU. Alan Gerstenecker, former sports editor of the Press-Record, is in charge of publicity for the Granite City chapter.

Tickets for the dinner, which includes a one-year membership and a subscription to DU Magazine, are $40 a couple and $30 per person. Tickets may be purchased by calling Zedolek at 877-2458.

Hylla trying to catch on at Mizzou

Woody Widenhofer held his first two-a-day practices yesterday for the University of Missouri football team.

A lot of grid fans in this area will have more than a casual interest in how the Tigers make out this year because one of the candidates to make the squad is a young man named Kurt Hylla.

Kurt, in his first two years at Granite City High School, looked like a leadpiper to get a bid from a big-time college football team. It wasn't only because of his brilliant performance on the gridiron, but also because he was an outstanding basketball and baseball player. It was a three-for-one deal for the college offering him a scholarship.

But going into his senior year, Hylla, coach Ron Yates and the football team were knocked back on their collective backside with the news that Kurt was going to be lost to the team because of a broken ankle. It was the second straight year he

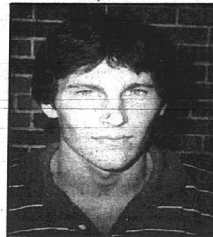

Sports of All Sorts

By Al Barnes

Hylla will be going to Missouri had gone down with a fracture. Yates proved to be a prophet when he predicted then that Hylla would not give up and would make a comeback. But there weren't any scholarship offers from a big-time school because of the injuries.

That didn't discourage young Hylla. He decided he would make it by the back door — the junior college ranks. He remembered that Ed Yonkus, a former coach at Alton High School, was in his tenth year at prestigious Triton College in the Chicago area.

Yonkus told the Granite City gridders to come up and he would be given a full chance to show what he could do. He showed them, all right. Kurt was named the Trojans' outstanding freshman man on defense at free safety. His stats tell the story. He gained honorable mention all-conference. He racked up 25 solo tackles and 12 assists while intercepting seven passes and forcing four fumbles, one of which he recovered.

Now the odd thing about Hylla winding up at Missouri. It was his original choice. He had fallen in love with Mizzou football by watching the films of Tiger games on Sunday mornings on one of the St. Louis television stations.

Hylla will be going to Missouri not as a full scholarship player, but a definite grade above the average walk-on. His record at Triton earned him recognition and he was asked to take part in the two-a-days in Columbia.

All summer long, through all that miserable hot weather, Kurt was running 10 miles a day. To assure that he would be ready for anything Widenhofer might throw at him, he also ran up and down Monks Mound five times, daily, and that is no picnic.

Working out often with him was Jamie Hogan, who has decided to try his luck with the Salukis at SIU-Carbondale. I predict there will be a lot of grid fans taking the trips to Carbondale and Columbia to see those two play if they make it.

Meanwhile, Tim Hogan, who combined with his twin brother to write a brilliant page in Granite City history matching that of their grandfather John, has said he's going to Eastern Illinois.
